Mentorship

On past occasions, I have made a bewildering observation when visiting lodges. The officers would talk about a Past Master “interfering” with the current officers’ leadership. Why do I find this bewildering? There are two possibilities: one, the Past Master could be interfering, complaining, or just moaning because he does not like the changes made by the current leaders; or two, the Past Master could be offering helpful advice and attempting to mentor the current leaders. The current leaders however, have been conditioned by the lodge’s culture to ignore advice that the Past Master might have to offer. Both of these situations are potentially detrimental to the lodge’s long-term wellbeing and perhaps occur due to improperly trained leaders. The disgruntled Past Master did not establish himself as a respectable, caring, and thoughtful mentor and probably would better serve the lodge by not speaking out. The current officers who are typecasting all Past Masters in the same broad category of interfering may miss listening to a Past Master who previously established himself as a skilled mentor.

What are some of the mentorship traits of an ideal Past Master? He understands from the beginning that a title in no way makes him a leader.

He uses high-supportive/low-directive behavior to support the current leaders. This approach helps to provide recognition to the new leaders and to help the former leader actively hear and facilitate problem-solving and decision making.

- He shares information about his leadership style.
- He lets others lead when he knows they would do a better job than he.
- He fosters collaboration by building trust and facilitating relationships.

As for the disgruntled Past Master, perhaps he could be treated as a Brother who needs their support and not typecast into a label.

From the West

One of the many common denominators for Masons is our belief in a supreme being—we open and close our Lodges with prayers, and it is frequently mentioned that while we are not a religion, we are certainly a handmaiden to each Mason's belief system.

It is in this vein that I offer a few comments on wishing someone to have a "Merry Christmas."

While it is a reflection of the Christian faith, it is also a well-intended prayer for the object of this wish to experience good things at this time of year.

It is OK to wish people a Merry Christmas, not as a confrontation or militant expression of Christianity, but as a sincere prayer for someone to experience joy and wellbeing in December. Merry Christmas and God Bless,,

GEORGE WASHINGTON MASONIC NATIONAL MEMORIAL ORNAMENT

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association is proud to offer for the 2019 holiday season a beautiful gold and enamel plated ornament: The Working Tool—United in Brotherly Love.

This ornament unites several essential Masonic symbols that illustrate the crucial and divine lesson of brotherly love. The triangular frame, topped by the Masonic emblem over a sky blue circle, represents the Fraternity. The raised Trowel is every Master Mason’s primary tool: as the Trowel spreads the cement that unites the many different stones or bricks of a building into a single, strong whole, so Master Masons spread brotherly love to unites men throughout the world. Behind the Trowel shines the Blazing Star, an ancient Masonic symbol of Divine Providence, representing the divine nature of brotherhood. As President, Brother George Washington used an ivory-handled trowel to lay the cornerstone of the U.S. Capitol. Just as the trowel inspires Masons to use brotherly love to overcome their differences, the new American Republic united all the states under the motto E Pluribus Unum, “from many, one.”

Brother Frederic A Shaffer was appointed Grand Orator

On October 7th, the Most Worshipful Quintus J Anderson, Grand Master of Masons of Arizona, made his official visit to the Lodge. His message was "Are you a Mason"

On May 2nd, rules and regulations for the disposal of plots in the Masonic Cemetery were made by the committee and passed by the lodge.

On East Sunday the Lodge attended the Church of Christ for services conducted by Brother Black, pastor of that church.

During the Grand Lodge session in Douglas Brother James R Malott was appointed on the Jurisprudence Committee and on the Special Committee Survey and Objectives.

The Easter Sunday service of Masons was held at Saint Paul's Methodist Church. Reverend Burl N Long conducted the services.

On March 13th an old style dance and card party for masons and their wives and girl friends was held in the Masonic Temple.

For the Memorial Day service the Alter in the Temple was draped in black. Brother Oscar J Rainey, Rector of Saint John's Episcopal Church conducted the services.

At the conclusion of the business meeting on July 2nd, a patriotic service was held.

National songs were sung; Brother James R Malott addressed the masons with a talk on their opportunities as masons to perpetuate the principles upon which our country was founded.

The Scottish Rite club presented the Masonic Play "The Greatest of Ease" by Carl H Cludy, at the regular communication on October 1st. The play was well received, holding the interest of all until the end.

Those taking part in it are to be commended for the excellent manner in which they put it on.

In his very instructive and interesting address he spoke on the power that is in the world for good or evil. The Grand Lodge will in turn request the Grand Lodge within whose jurisdiction they are that the nearby lodges place these Brethren on their mailing lists while they are so stationed.

Globe Chapter No. 7

Did you know that Globe is home to a Chapter of Royal Arch Masons?

The “Capitular” or Chapter Degrees of Freemasonry refers the four degrees of the York Rite system that follow the “blue lodge” or “Craft” degrees. The Holy Royal Arch is the final degree and the culmination of the Chapter experience for a candidate. The Chapter is the second body of the York Rite of Freemasonry (following the Symbolic or ‘Blue’ Lodge), though in some Jurisdictions it is considered the completion of the initial three degrees and is part of the regular Craft experience.

All Master Masons are eligible for membership.

Globe Chapter No. 7 RAM

Companions,

Our MEHP William Greenan has stressed the importance of further our knowledge of the lessons taught in the Royal Arch degrees. I have been one through my adult years to only focus on my profession and personal interests with my studies. Since becoming a Freemason, I have slowly come to accept and embrace broadening my interest in subjects not normally in my day to day activities. Being around Brothers and Companion of varied interests, professions and social and economic backgrounds piques my curiosity to learn more about them. The interesting conversations I had with my customers in the Automotive repair business started my desire to socialize with people outside of my profession and hobbies. The Masonic Fraternity has expanded that exposure to new ideas, thoughts and interests.

That is enough of my rambling about personal matters. To get back to education on the Chapter level, you should have received a copy of the Royal Arch Mason in the mail this week. It has a quiz or test on the Mark Master degree and definitely challenged my knowledge and recollection of the degree. Companions, take the time to review this test without the aid of your ritual and see how you score. Then go back and find the correct answers. You will find that several of those questions are answered in our Entered Apprentice degree. Have fun and learn something Companions.

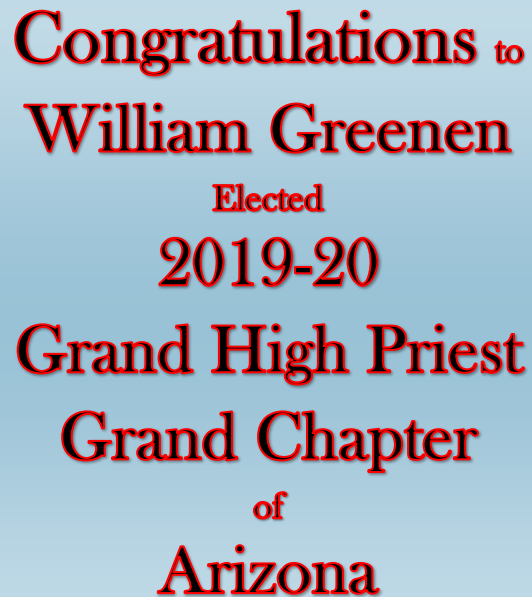

I hope all of us are studying the parts assigned for the Mark Master degree as we have a practice scheduled for January 11, 2020 if time permits. Ritual proficiency is my goal for the year and it is most important when conferring the Mark Master on potential Companions. I would also stress the desire to be able to open Globe Chapter No. 7 Royal Arch Masons without the aid of ritual books. This will not happen overnight but remember that Time, Patience and Perseverance will accomplish all things.

Happy Holidays to all my Companions withersoever dispersed around the globe, especially Globe Chapter No. 7.

FROM THE SOUTH

Brothers All:

Year's end is fast approaching, so it's time to look back at the year and take stock on how we did as a lodge, and as individual masons . Did the lodge achieve its goals, or where there areas that could be improved upon ? The same goes for us as individuals. Could we have improved ourselves more than we did ? I for one have a lot of room for improvement.
